

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—It looks as if old John Public, the guy who has been taking NRA price boosts on the chin and saying nothing, has finally awakened.

In the bearing on the retail coal code the other day an unobtrusive individual got to his feet and asked for the floor. "I represent the consumer," he said.

Coal dealers and NRA officials gasped. Never before had anything like this happened. They let the intruder—Fred Hoisington of New York—make his speech, and afterward jumped on him with all their fury.

This, however, was just the beginning. Various consumers and consumer organizations had been getting up steam. Among these was Mrs. Roosevelt. The First Lady of the Land is a careful buyer. During the early years of her married life she kept house on a strict budget; and when her daughter Anna got married, Mrs. Roosevelt gave her the household books as a wedding present.

So Mrs. Roosevelt helped to sponsor a meeting of consumer organizations last week. One of the most healthy achievements of this conference was the realization that the Consumers' Advisory Board of the NRA had been a complete flop. Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, the chairman, is well-meaning and delightful, but completely inadequate. An inheritor of the Harriman railroad millions, she has little realization of the consumers' problem.

At last week's consumers' conference, she was put on the spot. Professor Colston Warne of Amherst, among others, grilled her for her Board's failure.

"Yes, yes," replied Mrs. Rumsey. "I fully agree. But what would you have the Consumers' Advisory Board do about it?"

Professor Warne is tall and slow-spoken. He blinked at Mrs. Rumsey for a moment, finally drawled: "You could take a position, and then if it wasn't adopted, you could resign."

This is what Professor W. F. Ogburn, first head of the Consumers' Board, did, but it is the last thing Mrs. Rumsey wants to do. Appointed through her old friend, Professor Molly, Mrs. Rumsey is having the time of her life and would not give up her job for worlds.

In a slightly different category is Dexter Keczer, most forthright member of the NRA Consumers'

Big Strike Paralyzes Penn City

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21—UP—A general strike of truckmen and deliverymen was called by union leaders late tonight.

Immediately more than 20,000 workers, members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, scattered throughout the city to picket duty.

Every available policeman in the city was called to duty. Reports of violence were heard throughout the city.

The strike leaves Philadelphia transportation virtually paralyzed. The strikers planned to stop even the trolley, subways and buses.

Tickets were assigned to half-trailers, milk and coal delivery. Christmas deliveries will probably be halted. Produce stalled moving from the markets.

It was the first time that such a situation existed here.

Dr. William H. Leiberson, secretary of the Labor Board, who here as conciliator, addressed the workers' strike council before final action was taken.

He warned them that a call for a general strike would deprive the strikers of any further consideration by the Labor Board.

At the same time he assured them the board would fight the case against the P. R. T. in the federal courts to force the company to comply.

The teamsters, chauffeurs and stablemen said they went on strike because the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company refused to accept immediately the national labor board's decision in the recent taxicab dispute.

Mrs. Sears said that when her brother learned of her plight he was driven insane and is now in an asylum.

The slight, black-clad woman left the courtroom with hesitant steps, uncertain where she would go or what she would do to rebuild her shattered life.

Hearing Held In Stock Suit Against Jerome

MARTINEZ, Dec. 21—After taking some testimony before Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie today in the suit of R. J. Mundell against John J. Jerome, the Wembly Amusement corporations and others, the case was continued until next Tuesday.

Mundell claims that on September 22, 1932, a contract was entered into between the defendants and W. E. White, whereby White agreed to aid in promoting a dog track at El Cerrito.

In consideration of his services an agreement was made by the defendants to deliver 166 and two-thirds shares of class B capital stock to White, it is alleged.

According to the suit, White transferred his claim to Mundell, and the latter asks to be given the stock or $5,832.31.

3 GANGSTERS ARE KILLED BY POLICE

CHICAGO, Dec. 21—UP—Three gangsters were killed in a furious gun battle with police. Two were identified through finger prints as minor hoodlums.

Two of the slain men were reported by police to be Louis Katowitz and Sam Ginsberg.

Both had criminal records. The third man was not immediately identified.

Early reports that the gangsters were members of the John Dillinger gang of desperadoes who escaped from the Indiana State prison, were disproved by the fingerprints.

The three were in their first floor apartment when 20 raiding police rang the bell and when the door was not opened, officers kicked it down. The police retreated behind barricades and answered the gunfire of the trio.

Concentrating on the upper parts of the body and head, the police picked off their victims. All three were still living.

When the shooting ended, all three were dead.

Some time after the shooting, two blondes called at the apartment and when questioned told police that they had dates with the men. One of them cried.

"Marinier was a business man."

Both women were taken to police headquarters for further questioning.

The police raiders found several bullet proof vests, four machine guns and various other firearms, they said.

MOTHER TO MEET WITH 'LOST' SON

DETROIT, Dec. 21.—(UPI)—Mother love took Mrs. Maudie Reno across the continent to say for a Christmas reunion with one of her two lost boys.

The mother was deserted at Christmas time six years ago when her husband, Paul, vanished with their two sons, Paul, Jr., and Robert, then six and five years old.

Christmas eve was Robert's birthday. The actress wife and mother spent the day alone in her absent, broken home. The next day, Christmas, the mother began a search that lasted three whole lonely years.

Mrs. Reno obtained the services of a private investigator and, in the course of her search, made Christmas for the children. She expressed the hope that the two lost boys would be found with her own boys.

Another Christmas was approaching when the mother received a letter from her husband. The latter had been held in a Colorado prison. Paul Sr. wrote that he was the victim of assault, that the children had been taken from him, that he did not know where they were.

Mrs. Reno appealed to the children's Aid Society here. Authorities communicated with the Denver society to learn that Robert Jr. was a state ward and that Paul Jr. was missing, believed to be somewhere in California.

FRENCH GET INCREASE IN WINE QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—UP—France and the United States settled their deadlock over liquor quota and tariffs tonight with an agreement whereby France will be permitted an immediate increase in her liquor exports to this country in exchange for a flat agreement to import substantial quantities of American apples and pears.

The agreement had been held at words from Paris that a tax of 3½ cents a pound on apples and 6 cents on pears was to be imposed, which this government felt would prevent increased French consumption of the United States fruits. Under tonight's agreement, reached after hours of negotiation, France guarantees to absorb 20,000 metric tons of apples and pears before March 31.

In effect, the agreement is unchanged from its earlier form except that France gives definite assurance that the American fruit will be absorbed despite taxes.

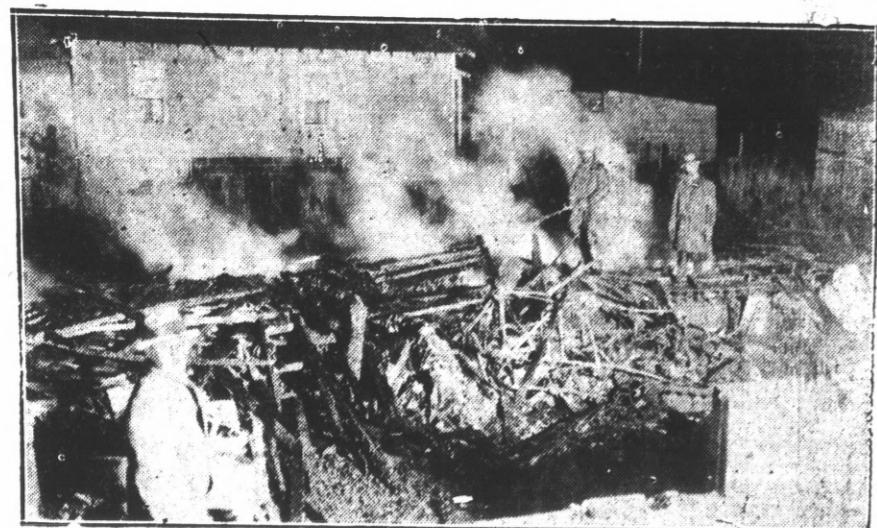

The amount of the increase in France's liquor quota was not made public. The French preliminary quota already has been exhausted.

The French agreement was expected to clear the way for quotal-enlargement agreements with other countries already under negotiation. In each case, the nation receiving a quota increase will be required to increase its market for some American farm products.

Both France and Portugal had used up their entire original quota today, the Fédéral Alcohol Control administration announced. If the French agreement had not been reached, a "surplus" in French wine available in this country would have resulted.

The United States was at the point of committing itself to the wine-fruit exchange agreement last week when news of the fruit tax leaked out in Paris. French officials insisted this tax would not affect the agreement but this government feared that the French would be unable to buy fruit with the heavy tax. Under the agreement finally reached tonight France guarantees to absorb the fruit, irrespective of tax.
